

MANY PRICELESS RELICS

COMPOSE THE COLUMBIAN LIBERTY BELL.

Mrs. Cleveland Touched the Button and the Meneilly Bell Foundry Did the Rest.

(Washington Evening News).

Troy, N. Y., June 6.—Never before were so many mementoes of a country's history gathered together and wrought into one thing as is being done now to make the Columbian Liberty Bell.

Every day there is received at the Meneilly Bell Foundry, here in Troy, scores of packages containing historic heirlooms to be cast into the bell. The packages of historical objects that have already arrived number several hundred, and so busy have the foundry managers been attending to the correspondence relative to the bell that half of them have not even been opened.

The interest is not confined to any one class or section—all America evidently means to take a hand in the making of this second national bell. A scrapbook will be made, probably, containing a description of every article that goes into the bell, also photographs of some of the more important objects. The money to pay the $6,500 that the casting will cost is coming in at a good rate. A great share of it is in pennies contributed by school children. The educational institutions of nearly every State have contributed. Citizens have subscribed sums of a substantial sort.

The Columbian Liberty Bell Committee will hold its first meeting in Independence Hall, Philadelphia to-morrow, June 7, and on the following day will come to Troy to be present at the casting. June 8 was chosen as a most appropriate time for the event, for it was on that date in 1776 that a committee was appointed by the Continental Congress to draft the Declaration of Independence. Mrs. Cleveland has promised to touch an electric button at Washington that will release the molten metal into the molds, and Mrs. Madge Morris Wagner, of San Diego, Cal., author of the poem "Liberty's Bell," will ring it for the first time in Chicago on Independence Day.

So great is the number of contributions that a complete enumeration of them would require many columns. Here are some among the important ones: J. Ackerman Coles, Scotch Plains, N. J., a piece of a bust of Benjamin Franklin, made in France in 1778; Miss E. L. Shaw, Troy, N. Y., a piece of the old bell in the first Dutch church at Schenectady, imported from Holland; Alexander Miller, Culpeper, Va., a medal given to his grandfather for valiant conduct at the battle of Waterloo, and also a pair of silver sugar tongs, owned by the Rev. Mr. Blair, the first Presbyterian minister in Virginia; Mrs. James Lyons, a key of a desk used many years by Patrick Henry; Thomas N. Emley of Cookstown, N. J., a piece of a surveyor's compass used by William Gurley, who came to this country from England as a commissioner in 1667; Miss Elizabeth H. Tittle of Johnstown, Pa., gold and silver jewelry that passed through the flood at that place; Harold A. Lawrence of West Philadelphia, an English coin of 1775, formerly belonging to Robert Hall, the great-great-grandfather of the giver, an associate of William Penn and a signer of the Declaration of Independence; Gertrude B. Garlock of Little Falls, N. Y., a bronze lock fixture from the residence of Gen. Nicholas Herkimer; Mrs. Prince, wife of Governor Prince, of New Mexico, a piece of copper pipe taken from the Governor's palace erected in Santa Fe in 1598; Edward G. Porter of Boston, a piece of the first church bell cast in Boston by Paul Revere; Mrs. W. H. Hyatt of New Orleans, a medal given Isaac Van Wartz, one of the three men who captured Major Andre; Patrick Calhoun of Atlanta, Ga., a silver spoon which belonged to United States Senator John C. Calhoun; William King of the Atlanta Constitution, a silver spoon of Henry W. Grady, the famous Southern editor; Mrs. E. R. Jones of Holly Springs, Miss., a knob from a clock given by Thomas Jefferson to Mrs. Nicholas Lewis; Richard S. Bayham of Troy, a silver shoe buckle, worn by Capt. Jacob Poole of Abington, Mass., who, with four sons fought at the battle of Bunker Hill, and was a member of the Boston tea party; Mrs. Andrew Reis of Baltimore, Md., piece of a silver spoon, once the property of George Washington; Mrs. L. H. Stone of Kalamazoo, Mich., a pin made in Greece from nites, such as the widows cast into the treasury as commanded by Jesus.

Colonel Olin Scott of Bennington contributed a piece of the original bell in Independence Hall, Philadelphia; Mrs. George Babcock of Troy, N. Y., piece of the original Atlantic cable; Mrs. Julia G. Pelton of Hartford, Conn., a piece of metal from the oldest house in Newington, Conn., which was built before 1693; No. 1 fire company of Sunbury, Pa., a piece of cannon from Fort Augusta, used in the French and Indian war of 1756; Mrs. C. H. Kenney, Philadelphia, French coin of 1792, presented to her grandfather, Captain W. H. Fevy, by General Lafayette; Mrs. Clark Waring of Columbia, S. C., seal of that State made by General Wade Hampton; Mrs. Henry Rives of Eureka, Nev., a piece of copper from the United States steamship Hartford, famous in the civil war, also a piece of copper from the ill-fated steamer Jeannette and another from the United States steamship wrecked at Samoa; Miss J. A. Lansing of Albany, silver teapot used in Washington during Washington's Administration.

M. McINERNY.

Are we to be, or not to be, a part of the Great Republic, seems to be the burning question of the day, and one we had rather leave to wiser heads than ours to solve; and while great statesmen are wrestling with this momentous question, we want to have a little "pow-wow" with you on some other subjects, that concern you as well as ourselves.

Has it not occurred to you that you've been wearing that old hat long enough! In these progressive times if you intend to be "in it," you've got to keep pace with fashion. No matter how otherwise well dressed you may be, unless your hat is the correct thing you bear a shabby appearance.

We have already laid in a stock of the Latest Hats of the coming Spring and Summer styles, in hard felts, soft felts and straws, and including a line of the celebrated "Fedora" Hats, at present all the rage in the United States. There is therefore, no necessity for you to hang on any longer to that old Tile that bears such a strong resemblance to the hat "your father wore."

Believing that business will be better in the near future, we have not hesitated to keep our stock full in all lines. Take collars for instance: We have almost everything you could wish for. If you wear a standing collar, just come in and take a look at our "Narenta" or "Ardonia;" or if you prefer a turn down collar, try the "Winnipeg" or "Goswell;" we have have lots of others, and can't fail to suit you. Cuffs in abundance, links or otherwise.

Neckwear in profusion, scarfs, windsors, 4-in-hands, and a special lot of "Boys' Bows;" suspenders in great variety, leather and woven ends, good strong, serviceable goods.

We might go on indefinitely, but space is valuable, and to enumerate everything we carry would fill a pretty fair sized book. If there is anything you want in the men's line, just drop in and see us, and if we can't suit you, we don't believe any one can.

If you should want a pair of nice shoes, let us try a hand at fitting you. Did it ever occur to you

How much a man is like his shoes; For instance, both a soul may lose. Both have been tanned; Both are made tight by Cobblers; Both get left and right; Both need a mate to be complete; And both are made to go on feet.

They both need healing; oft are sold, And both in time will turn to mould. With shoes the last is first; with men The first shall be the last; and when The shoes wear out, they're mended new; When men wear out, they're men dead too.

They both are trod upon, and both Will tread on others nothing loth. Both have their ties, and both incline When polished, in the world to shine; And both peg out. Now would you choose To be a man, or be his shoes.

POINTERS IN SHOES

Just three pointers will be enough for you:
1st—We have over 20,000 pairs of Shoes in stock to select from, embracing all leading lines.
2nd—We buy in larger quantities than any one in the country, only spot cash, consequently we buy cheaper.
3rd—We have no extraordinary inducements to offer; you would distrust a man who had gold dollars to sell for ninety cents. Look out for the shoe man with that kind of a story; his shoes may be Counterfeits.
